I am emailing to advise of such disapproval to plans for a so called, garden city in what is considered the best area on Warrington. The green belt land around these parts is Warrington's unspoken jewel.

I [REDACTED] know first hand of the absolute chaos that comes to a desirable area when councils think only of the money, and no further finance to funding further to the infrastructure, healthcare and school and roads in the area.

Altrincham is congested constantly, the hospitals and schools cannot cope, the road infrastructure is obscene and way past what it can handle.

Your plans for the areas around Grappenhall Heys is beyond crazy. This is detrimental and will have a severe impact on the Town, not to mention the environment.

I would love to hear the justification for this approval to destroy green belt land in south Warrington over existing brown field sites.

There is so much brown belt land available in Warrington? Yet you focus on destroying more profitable areas for financial incentive. It's disgusting and i believe, because you are chasing city status.. the thing no one wants, and is totally unnecessary.

Warrington appeals as a central commuter town to Manchester and Liverpool, it is ideally placed and served this function, this is the appeal, the doorstep to the Cheshire countryside is one of Warrington's appeal, [REDACTED]. I am baffled as to why you have a wish to destroy your very own town in this manner.

Leave Stockton Heath and Appleton be, it is your little gem of Warrington for residents and visitors. None of this is wanted and you are shooting yourself in the foot by destroying green belt in your own environment.
