To who this email may concern,

I have recently been informed by letter that there is plans for a new development of the old iron bridge in Grappenhall putting my home [REDACTED] which I lived in for [REDACTED] years, at risk of been taken from me by force sale. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

My home situated [REDACTED] has a mix of memories of my family's life time [REDACTED]. Your plans for your new development would not only put myself [REDACTED] out of my home, with no other choices but you will take my husbands and my children's memory from me. I am begging you not to take my home from me [REDACTED]
