

Croft is a green belt land, what is the point of giving this status to the land and then just taking it away when the council feels the need. It is land that must be protected for wildlife and the nature of the existing village.

As a Warrington resident of [REDACTED] years I know the impact that massive traffic flow already has through the village has. The roads of the village just cannot cope with what is there now, it is unbelievable to think what it would be like if the councils plans went ahead. The traffic brought whilst construction is ongoing and then the impact of the people living in the new homes, many of whom would have two cars per household. There would be a severe impact of the already limited services in the village. Crofts, character must be maintained and preserved. The building work must not go ahead.
