Labour executive members

I wish to object to the development plans for South Warrington.

I have just returned from Germany and they have a policy of building 150 Houses and separate the next phase by greenbelt of a couple of square miles.

The idea is that people get a sense of community spirit, less crime and are self policing, which keeps the area safe and clean. Once you start an urban sprawl these benefits start to disappear. You only have to look at what is happening in Sankey

I believe your plans are nothing but a power grab, to get more influence in Whitehall and further your own careers. This seems to be a race to the bottom, by make good areas into bad ones in the beautiful countryside we have here in South Warrington. I am an ordinary working man who left school at [REDACTED] and I appreciate the need for further housing, but this is not the way

If we have a single breakdown on the M56 or M6, the roads around here are gridlocked, not to mention the potential problems that may occur Bridge at Runcorn to look at the law of unintended consequences.

It seems to me the timing of this action is cynical, when we have just elected a labour MP for this area. The North of Warrington has lots of spare Brown field and green filed sites that could be used for extra building, but they are in mainly labour controlled areas.

Finally, I don't trust anyone who would give the OK for the newest, ugliest and imposing car park that was ever built in Warrington
