Hi

I object to the plan because we are going to have lots of less oxygen for us to breathe in. People wont be able to go on adventures and there wont be much green land for the animals to to live on and have their food. All the trees being knocked down is really bad for the air and there will be lots of extra vehicles going around so that will start being worse for the Environment. There are going to be lots of other houses which are really expensive and there wont be many people living in them because they cant afford them so that will be a waste of green land.
